

have you done the Deed yet?

Ok, so your mom was probably right, maybe you really should wait until you're old enough before getting into something this serious. But give me a break, don't you think you've waited long enough? I mean, all your friends are already doing it. You probably should just go ahead and get it over with, right? Oh, and I hear you saying, "But, I've already done the Deed." Yeah, once, maybe even twice. Big deal. Until you have done it as many times as we have you really just don't know how good it can really be. So next time you get that special little tingle, you know what we mean, when you see those beautiful blue shutters and that flawless backyard, just give us a call. We'll make sure the experience is everything you ever dreamed it could be, even if it's only your first time.
